0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. and we're pretty good at trivia By A mom and her daughter This was just really too hard and covered too wide a variety of questions (modern pop culture to obscure historical information). We could only get about one out of every 25 questions, and we're pretty good at trivia. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. So much fun!. By Mason This was a Christmas gift to my coworker.. we wait a month and then rip 30 or so of them off at once together and turn it into a game. So much fun!.. a gift that's kept giving all year so far! 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Fun calendar for daily trivia with coworkers! By Jilia Vento I love this because it makes every day at work a little more fun when I get to host a daily trivia competition with my coworkers. Only issue is, which I think it's impossible to really overcome..., but some of the questions are just not very good. There are too many pop culture ones, which is fine for some people but I'm not a fan of. Wish there were more science and geography questions.

Science: How much does an average cloud weigh? 1 Literature: What happened to the first draft of the original manuscript of John Steinbeck's Of Mice and Men? 2 Food and drink: What common objects now-standard size is based on the amount of air a glassblower's lungs could hold? 3 Packed with hundreds of fascinating facts covering every subject under the sun, 365 Days of Amazing Trivia keeps the trivia buff surprised and entertained, all year long. Who decided on January as the first month of the year? 4 1.1 million pounds 2 It was eaten by Steinbeck's dog 3 The wine bottle, which measures 750 milliliters⁴ Julius Caesar. It made sense to start the year with the month honoring Janus, the god of beginnings
