knowledge with magicians around the world, while simultaneously introducing his card magic to both his family and friends. His latest book, 45 Astonishing Magic Card Tricks For Kidz of All Ages, is a continuation of Family Magic I and II, that introduced us to a wealth of card magic that didn't require great skill and dexterity, but only attention to detail and the ability to carry out an effect in a set manner, without arduous practice. There is a constant flow of new effects coming from the 'names' in magic. I see their ads and videos every couple of days, introducing a new effect that some other 'name' magician considers 'absolutely essential' for your repertoire. Although the vids are interesting, it's the copy that's telling.. Invariably, somewhere about the seventh paragraph, the writer reveals that "this effect, discovered in an obscure Marlo manuscript from the 40's" served as the 'inspiration' for this startling new move-sleight-effect-technique. If that's the case, Ed's new book could be the inspiration behind a year's worth of 'new' effects from some ingenious entrepreneur. Family Magic 4 is a treatise of card tricks intended to be performable by Kidz, but serving as a reminder to us 'adult' kidz who depend on card magic just how much FUN magic can be... There are a number of effects using locator cards, forced cards, reversed cards and duplicate cards. Many of these effects are the basis of some of the classics of card magic. John Scarne took some of these effects and converted them into a slightly more complex version, then published them as 'Scarne on Card Magic', one of my all-time favorite magic books and the one that served as my initial inspiration into card magic. After almost all of the 45 tricks, there is a small section offering a tip or tips for the young magician. If you know a young performer, or have a young performer in your family, this would be an ideal introduction to card magic. This may well be the 'Scarne on Card Magic' in their life.. and how good would YOU feel to know you've introduced a young one to a world of magic. Family Magic 4 is the one book that YOU will borrow from a young wizard, and both of you stand to expand your horizons. While the younger of you is learning some great basic effects, the older of you two can practice their creativity.

This book will carry kidz of all ages with clarity into the world of magic chicanery with a total of 45 easy-to-do magic tricks, none of which require prior skill, though a few tricks may require kidz to learn a simple card sleight. Kidz can easily perform these magic tricks for friends or relatives. Though easy-to-do, people find the outcome of these tricks as startling and amazing as more complicated tricks.
