About the AuthorIn 1984, Ken co-founded the Comedy Zone, which grew to be one of the largest comedy club circuits in North America as well as a talent agency for colleges and corporations from coast to coast. Aside from marketing, branding, and selling the Comedy Zone franchise and booking talent, Ken also promoted major concerts with top stars including: Jerry Seinfeld, David Copperfield, Sam Kinison, Ron White, Ellen DeGeneras, Carrot Top, Rodney Carrington, Sinbad, Paul Reiser, Drew Carey, Brian Regan, Louie Anderson, Phyllis Diller, Pat Paulson, Gallagher, Rich Hall, Emo Phillips, and many more. Along with partner Brad Greenberg, Ken took charge of a promising young comedian with the unlikely name of Carrot Top. Under their guidance, Carrot Top went from club performer to national concert act in a very short time. Ken booked Carrot Top on every major comedy TV show in the country including NBCs Tonight Show with Jay Leno; ABCs Arsenio Hall Show, Regis and Kathy Lee, and Americas Super Showcase; AEs Evening at the Improv, and Comedy on the Road; FOXs Comic Strip Live and Sunday Comics; Showtimes Jonathan Winters Special, and Comedy Club Network; and MTVs Half Hour Comedy Show. Ken was instrumental in a Simon Schuster book deal entitled Junk in a Trunk and produced Carrot Tops first long-form video of his live show, Twist Ties and Duct Tape. Kens film and television credits include: Co-Executive Producer for the Trimark Pictures Chairman of the Board; Producer for AM Mayham on the Cartoon Network, Co-Creator, Writer, Producer for So You Think Youre Funny a TV pilot sold to Team Entertainment; In My House with Kevin Meaney a pilot sold to GRB Entertainment; and Banana Skins, pilot sold to TVD Productions; and Segment Producer for the Donny and Marie Show.
