Phil N. Good : Timescanner: The Future Has Been Postponed before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Timescanner: The Future Has Been Postponed:

In this awkwardly-paced thriller the future has gone amuck. A Christian group terrorizes the west. Boy Scouts are listed as a subversive hate group. Whooping cranes come back with a vengeance and are eating the Ridley turtles. The poles shift and the North Pole ends up in Libya. U.S. capitalists seek political asylum in Russia. Most Americans are in a stupor from their implanted entertainment systems/GPS locators. NASA mistakenly uses centimetres instead of astronomical units in a major space program. Some outlaw Linton clones accidentally knock a hole in the fabric of time and space. Finally a war breaks out between computers that completely gridlocks all electronic communication. Rapture comes but the massive amount of electronic noise interferes with the transmission so that most people are missed on the first try. What the future holds is unsettling and perhaps dangerously familiar! But in spite of all this, we still have the right to life, liberty and to file suit for unhappiness.

About the Author Professor Philip Nathan Good is a profligate author, poet and philosopher who has written and published 32 books and sold almost 20 copies, of which three were not to family members. Phil N., as he is known, is erudite and learned in most subjects. He received his high school equivalency diploma after 16 years of hard work and constant harassment from teachers and students who were jealous of his brilliance. Demonstrating this is the fact that he only took eight weeks to get his BS, his MS and his Ph.D his particle physics. (His lifelong dream was to develop a stronger, lighter particleboard so that cheap furniture would last longer than two weeks and could be moved without breaking). Not only did he graduate; he did so with honors. He graduated cum loudly for his Bachelor's degree, magna cum laude for his Master's and summa cum lotto for his Ph.D. This was all done over the Internet from such prestigious schools as Sink Hole Institute of Technology, in Earthworm,! Texas, Cayman Island's Wecon U and Casa del Pobre College in Nuevo Leone, Mexico. He often laughs at the foolishness of people who spend 10 to 12 years plus tens of thousands of dollars to get these same degrees. It took his eight weeks and $2000.00 to do the same thing. Ha, now who's the dummy? The remarkable aspect of his education was that his degrees all came while serving time in prison for a crime that he says was not his fault. He and others say the girl looked older than 12. He became a preacher of the gospel while in prison and as a result of his behavior was paroled three years early. The most astounding thing happened: the inmates, the guards and the warden all signed a petition asking the parole board to please get him out of there as soon as possible. They felt he was needed much more on the outside. He remembers fondly the beautifully descriptive words the warden often used for him. He did not know exactly what egocentric pomposity meant but he felt sure it had a special meaning.
