Very nice, but the images could be largerBy MorisThe idea is of taking underwater pix of dogs is revolutionary and the purchase is certainly worth it. Yet, my mistake, I hadn't realized that the book's dimensions do not allow any larger picture. Double-page images being cut right in the middle due to the binding, the pictures appear less beautiful than they could.10 of 10 people found the following review helpful. Dogs + WaterBy artfulusedbooksI assume dogs have ALWAYS looked like this when they are diving playing in the water. Now, Seth Casteel has captured for us views that have never been seen before. After a 1-page introduction, each turn of a page shows a photo of a dog looking into water or diving under the surface pursuing a toy. Each dog is identified by name, breed, age. One looks like a shark, one looks like a donkey, others look like alligators. Nearly all have their eyes wide open, the better to follow a ball or other toy. Some appear goofy (like the dog on the cover), some appear scary, all are intensely focused.A word about the layout of the book: of the 90 pictures, only 10 have the binding crease touching a dog's face. I didn't feel this was bothersome.I wondered what the dogs looked like when they were not under water. At the back are small bw headshots taken when the dogs were sitting pretty for the camera on dry land.I don't know whether I will look through this book over over again. But my life is richer now that I have seen these photos.23 of 24 people found the following review helpful. Great photos- but they need to republish it with photos off-centered so the dogs' faces can be seen!By nomdeplumeThis book has some very funny and beautiful photographs of these dogs. It is one of those books that is not only good for the intended recipient, but also will entertain any guests one may have.One issue I had with this book was the layout. Some photos are centered, which means that due to the binding the photos are essentially disfigured by the layout. You can't see the whole expression of the dog, despite the fact it was enlarged around two pages for the purpose of highlighting that photo. Other photos were off-center, or covered one page, which made it much more fitting for the format.If they would change the centering so that photos were not cut off by the binding, or bind it differently, that would improve the quality of the printing and make all the photographs equally visible.

"Seth Casteel's photos of dogs diving into swimming pools have been a sensation", says the Washington Post, and "a global phenomenon" according to Wired magazine. Proudly made in the U.S.A., the 1000 precision cut, fully-interlocking pieces are poly-bagged for protection inside an attractive 12 x 10 box. Completed puzzles measures 26.625 x 19.25 .
