approach written by a very experienced punter. Only useful for punters who have intelligence to follow it imo.

The secret to winning money from horse racing is to find value bets. You may know this from racing newspaper columns like the Racing Post Pricewise. Carl Nicholson is the brains behind the Value Backing horse racing tipping service and in this his first book he tells the story of how he learned his trade from his early days as an intern at the Daily Racing Form whilst studying at Harvard. Right up to today and his horse racing tipping service. The second part of the book details the methods that Carl uses to find the value bets that make up his service and which have earned him a reputation for big priced winners.
