Book Four Of?By Bill ReichWith every volume of this series I learn things I did not know, have to consider opinions I had never considered and store up disagreements to discuss with the author. I also am reminded of films I want to see again, decide to try again films I thought never to revisit and have confirmed my desire never to bother with some others, some of which the author likes.Great fun, lots of information and intelligent opinion, even when he's wrong.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. A must for film loversBy Scott LasterThis book series just gets better and better, Ive loved then since the first edition; not only for the insight and wit, but every time I see a film that was, or should have been nominated, I go back to reference the year in one of the volumes to see Robert's views on the film's merit . Some of these types of books are dry and pedestrian, but Robert injects so much knowledge and humor, it makes me revisit each one again and again. No film lover should be without each edition, I can't recommend them highly enough0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. These books are thr best. Who Should Have Won the Oscars? If you've ever wondered why the Oscars seem to go to the wrong movies, WHO Won?!? is the book for you. Beginning with the first Oscar ceremony, Robert James looks at all the major categories, slashing and burning his way through the bad, praising the good, and offering the best for your consideration. A comic, biting analysis of hundreds of films, WHO Won?!? is a guide to the wonderful movies you missed - and a warning against the ones you should never have seen in the first place. Volume Four takes us to the battles over the body of studio Hollywood, as the knives come out at the reading of the will, while the Old Fogies battle off the Young Turks, complete with massive budgets, brief nudity, and bloodshed, both real and imagined.

"Brilliantly encyclopedic and frequently hilarious." Patrick McGilligan, author of Alfred Hitchcock: A Life in Darkness and Light; Nicholas Ray: The Glorious Failure of an American Director; Fritz Lang: The Nature of the Beast; and George Cukor: A Double Life. "I've read about half of it and enjoy all of it, even the parts that piss me off." Scott Eyman, author of Empire of Dreams: The Epic Life of Cecil B. DeMille, (2010), Louis B. Mayer: Lion of Hollywood (Simon and Schuster, 2005), Print the Legend: The Life and Times of John Ford (2001), and Ernst Lubitsch: Laughter in Paradise (2000). "For the most well-researched and well-reasoned thoughts on who should have won the Oscars, read Robert James!" -- Michael Kerbel, director of the Yale University Film Study Center

For those of you who buy the book, especially the Kindle, PLEASE read the footnotes marked by Arabic numerals! That's where most of the comic asides and tirades are (1,2,3,etc.).The Roman numeral endnotes are the bibliographical information -- you can ignore those unless you want to know where the information comes from (i, ii, iii, iv, etc.).
